THE COMPANY SYSTEMS DESIGN

Open letter from David Starling,
Vice President - Systems Design, 1.800.887.1828

Dear Professional,

Systems Design is the leader in providing food and nutrition management systems to school districts. Systems Design provides a district wide online system with immediate access to all transactions and accounts without file transfers or data consolidation.

Our flagship program, Point of Sale, sets the standard for school accountability of student participation in the National School Lunch Program. Meeting the needs of customers is the philosophy behind developing new programs such as Lunch Money Now, our online lunch payment and inquiry system for parents and Application Scanning for free and reduced lunch applications.

Our online, real-time system provides centralized control and fluid exchange of updated information on students and their status. Our system is easy to learn at the point of sale aiding in the successful installation of over 200 districts. We are a company dedicated to our clients and our staff has extensive experience in the school food service industry to ensure the success of your installation.

If you are thinking about automating your food and nutrition department or getting online with a real-time provider be sure to allow us the opportunity to show you the best solution in the industry.

Thanks for your interest in Systems Design!

Sincerely,

David Starling, Vice President - Systems Design
